Listen to memorable stories and reflections from past and present students, families and staff as we celebrate 100 years of school life.

A Century of Memories, A Future of Possibilities

As we celebrate 100 Years of learning, community and belonging, we recognise that our story has been written by thousands of students, families, educators, and friends of Allenby Gardens Primary School.

Community Involvement

Allenby Gardens Primary School's centenary is a celebration of the many people who have shaped our school over the past 100 years.

Throughout the day, school community and visitors will have opportunities to reconnect, share memories, and contribute to our living history through:

- Alumni reunions and networking opportunities
- Community memorabilia displays and historical contributions
- "Radio Stories of School Times" interviews and memories
- 'Walk Through the Decades' exhibition
- Celebrations of our cultural heritage through music, dance, art, and community gathering

As we honour our past, we also celebrate the partnerships that continue to strengthen our school community and inspire future generations of learners.
